Company Health And Safety Policy Statement

Goodridge Electronics recognises its duty to ensure, so far as it is reasonably practical, the health and safety of the company's employees, and others that may be affected by its actions.

Goodridge Electronics requires employees at all levels to exercise a duty of care and co-operate in establishing and maintaining safe and healthy working conditions. They should avoid any action that may be detrimental to the health and safety of themselves, and of people around them.

Goodridge Electronics policy is to comply with legal safety and health requirements as a minimum standard, and with relevant codes of practice.

Each individual director, manager and supervisor is expected to take care of the health and safety of employees within his/her control.

All policy statements will be regularly reviewed and revised as necessary, with any revisions brought to the attention of the employees.

Goodridge Electronics will provide competent technical advice on health and safety matters, and assist line managers in their task of ensuring healthy and safe conditions at the workplace.

The company will seek to ensure that all buildings, vehicles, plant and equipment are well maintained and meet with the health and safety standards.

Goodridge Electronics will provide safety training and encourage awareness of safety among all employees.

Goodridge Electronics will adopt a planned approach to the management of health and safety. This will include:

- Specific risk assessments carried out for each project undertaken in order to identify risks.
- Identification of protective and preventative measures to control identified risks.
- Introduction of these preventative measures to control these risks.
- Monitoring on an ongoing basis, the operation of the preventative measures to control the risks.
